

February 13, 2020

Unifor and Co-op Refinery to return to the bargaining table on February 19 with a provincially appointed mediator. Windsor health care members highlight ongoing staffing and funding crisis in long-term care across Ontario. Plus Unifor prepares to celebrate and advocate on International Women's Day.

 WHAT'S HOT

A heartfelt show of appreciation as the Spouses of Unifor 594 deliver thank you cards with seeds to plant to people who traveled from across the country to support locked out Coop Refinery workers.

READ MORE

 TAKE ACTION

On February 22, the Ontario Conservative policy convention will take place in Niagara Falls and the people of the province will be there to demand an end to the massive Doug Ford cuts. Find out how you can join the rally.

READ MORE

IN THE NEWS

Negotiations will resume between Unifor and Federated Co-operatives Limited as the Saskatchewan government appoints a special mediator to help end the 70-day lockout at the Co-op Refinery.

READ MORE

Windsor health care members plan job action after talks breakdown at Schelgel long-term care homes.

READ MORE

Unifor Women's Director Lisa Kelly presents to Brazil's Labor Court about the Women's Advocate Program and Paid Domestic Violence Leave, in an effort to see the programs go international.

READ MORE

More than 180 Unifor Skilled Trades members gather in London, ON to discuss issues in their workplaces, including new technology, collective bargaining, work ownership,

During Black History month we'll be sharing stories of Black member activists who are sparking change in their communities. If you or someone you know is interested in being featured email apprenticeships and much more.

humanrights@unifor.org.

READ MORE

READ MORE

BARGAINING UPDATES

Canadian air traffic specialists vote 93 per cent in favour of ratifying a new four-year collective agreement with Nav Canada.

READ MORE

IN CASE YOU MISSED IT

Unifor members and their families gathered at our union hall in New Westminster to celebrate the Lunar New Year.

READ MORE

RESOURCES

International Women's Day, March 8, is fast approaching. Order your posters and materials today!

READ MORE

Unifor